

Dear HR Manager,

I am Reza Ehsani and I am 33 years old. I am a creative, strategist and motivated person who supported by perfect academic knowledge and many valuable works experience. I passed master of business administration (MBA) at Anhalt University in Bernburg-Germany. At the university, I learned a lot about different business and management fields, such as accounting and finance analysis, marketing management, corporate project management, international management, leadership and management skills, strategic management, economics, reporting and controlling, business law, and etc.

Besides academic knowledge, I have another wing that help me to fly in success sky. This wing is my valuable work experience. I have two-year experience of E-commerce management in a company (Aazon GmbH) in Neuss-Germany. This company is active in the field of E-shopping. Setting strategies and executive plans, market development, team management, analysis different business factors and making decisions are part of my task as E-commerce manager in this company.

Before that I set up my own Start up in my home country which became very successful and famous start up in just two years. In fact, it was an Online Job Board (Brand name: Karyabin) with different features and unique approach that make this start up very soon a main online portal for job seekers and entrepreneurs. To setting up and growing this start up, I worked a lot and I did everything like writing business plan, marketing and advertising, executive processes, collecting a qualified team, business development strategies, and etc. These two years of my work experience was the most shining point of my work life.

Before that I was online marketing manager in one of well-known company in Tehran which are active in the field of cyber services, programming, website and application designing, and etc. and before that for one year I was sale specialist in this company.

At the present, after graduation and two-year experience in German market, it is time to enter in a more serious and professional level of work life. My passion is working in a innovative company and professional team, that I can present all of my abilities and professions and on the other hand, increase my skills and professional experience. That is the reason to apply for your company.

I hope I will receive a positive feed back from you. So, we can know more about together in the next step.

Best Regards

Reza Ehsani

Dusseldorf / August 2021